

ABSTRACT

A plasma display panel having an array of display cells, each display cell having a closed-rib structure and provided with a fluorescent layer wherein the fluorescent layer thickness in at least one of the display cells is different from the fluorescent layer thickness in other display cells.